"BUD" O'BRVAN

to Owensboro,

Mr. J. C. O'Bryan, who became receiver of the Western Asylum for the Insane in July 1900, has voluntarily retired from the position he filled so acceptably and left yesterday for his home in Owensboro, together, with his family, Mr. O'Bryan came into the office with considerable experience in plerical onsiderable experience in clerical work and performed his duties in an efficient and conscientions manwork and performed his duties in an efficient and conscientions manner. He resigns to accept a traveling position with Armour & Co., of Louisville, Ky. His territory will be the river counties between Henderson and Louisville. Mr. O'-Bryan was formerly deputy sheriff of Daviess county and his friends, are already mentioning him in connection with the Democratic nomination for sheriff of that county in his county has frequently been shown and even while here he loy ally supported Owenshoro men who sought office. In the congressional race he worked hard for Judge E. P. Taylor and helped to greatly increased his vote in this county. He was also an earnest supporter of Mr. J. T. Griffith for Treasurer last spring and did all he could for him. We predict that when the time comes he will be a most formidable candidate, if he consents to run.

SHIRKING.

The Harder Work Than the Actual Wary Are Fatal Which Need Not In Il Properly Treated.

The Jil you ever notice how hard some men work to keep from working? said a man who keeps from working? said a man who keeps that on things of a curious kindto a writer for the New Orleans Ilmos-Democrat. "If you haven't you have missed something that will entertain you for awhile when you have nothing else to do. Take the man who shirks his work, and as a rule you will find that the act of dodging what he work, and as a rule you will find that the act of dodging what he man who shirks never has a smooth way of its licential to the could do will vastly increase the amount of work which he is forced to do. You take the common beggar and the tramp as examples, Mind you, I am speaking of the real beggar, and the real tramp, the 'professionals,' as they are called, who develop into mendicants. I have often wondered if these fellows ever took the time to figure out how much less energy they could expend on the little things and little comforts they get, if they would go about it in a different way. Of course, many of the beggars and tramps roaming over the country belong to the hardened eriminal class, and they are simply out to loot in whatever are simply out to loot in whatever way they can do it. But I was way they can do it. But I was thinking more particularly of the man belonging to the honest class, and not of crooks. Shirking doesn't pay. It is a bad business, and to use an old saying, costs more than it comes to. Yes, indeed. This thing of working just to keep from working is about the hardest work a man can do. I have known not a few instances of men who would burn up five dollars' worth of muscular energy, and time, in an effort to get five cents for 'nothing,' as they were pleased to think, and it never once occurred to them that makes a severe burn from them common.

There are many strange methods in your of the work of t

No accident demands more prompt intervention, if one would limit its severity, than a burn of any kind. The skin is able to endure momentarily the direct application of heat of a degree very much above what might be termed destructive heat because of the moisture of the epidermis, which covers the true skin more or less thickly; most thickly of course on the palms of the hands and soles of the feet. As soon as all moisture is completely evaporated, a high degree of heat causes the destructive process to begin.

Wherever possible a burned surface should be immediately plunged into water, preferably cold. Water is an excellent conductor of heat, and is most generally available. After the lapse of but a few seconds from the time of burning such a remedy will have lost its virtue. One instinctively applies this remedy when on scorching his finger he immediately lays it on the tongue. The depth of the burn is thus greatly lessened, and destruction of the entire thickness of the skin is prevented.

So many severe burns have their origin from the kitchen pencil or brush. Some years ago a certain Mr. Straker attracted great attention by his swelled wood pictures. His method-depended on the fact that wood swells when wetted, and shrinks again when dry, and that wood there when pressed down dry rise permanently to their former level if wetted.

SILK CULTURE IN CHICAGO.

SILK CULTURE IN CHICAGO.
Worm Can Form Cocoon by Feeding
on Red Mulberrier.
Silk dresses are in sight for all
Chicago girls who want them, says the Philadelphia Press. The experiment of raising silk worms, instituted in May by Albert Labarthe, has proved a practical success. Already many thousand yards of genuine Chicago silk
have been reeled off the ecocoons by Mr. Labarthe. He will during the next day or two send the remaning cocoons to the agriculturul department at Washington,
which supplied him with the eggs,
for an official test of the quality of the silk. of the silk.

"The point of this experiment," said Mr. Labarthe, "does not lie in the proof that the silkworm can form his ecocon in the United States as readily as in Fisance or China, but in the fact that he can do so after being fed on the red mulberry instead of the white. There are no white mulberries in this country.

mulberry instead of the whiteThere are no white mulberries in this country.
"The effect of this test is to show that it is practicable to beg in the silk industry in Chicago
at once. I have had experience with the industry in the depart ment of the Loire in France. It is likely that I will now import a large number of eggs and begin the raising of worms on a big scale. My test shows me that I will be able to feed my worms on the red mulberry for five years
during which the white numberry trees which I have planted are growing. The white mulberry to,
of course, better food than the red. But it is not absolutely essential. There is no reason why within ten years a vast amount of silk should not be produced
right here in Chicago.
"The chief requisite of silk raising is the necessity of sedulous care. The eggs are first placed in an incubator. In three days the worms are hatched.

lous care. The eggs are first placed in an incubator. In three days the worms are hatched. These are fed on the mulberry for about 30 days. At the end of that time they form the cocoons. In ten or 12 days these cocoons are steamed. This is for the purpose of killing the worm inside. Then the cocoons, whose outside is the silk, are sold to the manufactories. Twelve hundred or 1,500 yards of unbroken silk thread comes from each ecocoon. It is recled off and the process of manufacture begins. The cocoons, with the worm inside, bring three dollars a pound. If the industry gets started here," concluded Mr. Labarthe, "the price of silk will certafully be much lessened."

Mr. Labarthe did not care to make an estimate as to the probable cost of silk under these conditions. It would be "cheaper," he said. He spoke in a way which suggested that the woman's millenium may soon arrive, and that an avenue of sir silk decesse to lenium may soon arrive, and that an average of six silk dresses to every wardrobe is not an impos

HANGMAN'S PAY.

Oriental Executioners Extor Money from Local Magnates.

In the east a hangman's trade is very profitable. As such as a person is condemned to be hanged person is condemned to be hanged notice is sent to the executioner, who has the privilege of creeting the scaffold wherever he pleases, and at sunrise the next morning he begins his work. Accompanied by his assistants, who guard the condemned man and carry material for the scaffold, begoes to some prominent place in front of a large dwelling, and there proceeds to erect the scaffold.

A few minutes later the owner of the large dwelling rushes out and implores him to go some where else.

"I don't want to have a man hauged in front of my house," he explains.
"All right," says the hangman, "I am willing to go elsewhere provided you pay me for my trouble in coming here and for the time which I have spent at the job."

Though the sum which he names is pretty large, the owner of the large dwelling pays it without a word, whereupon the hangman goes on to another large dwelling, alwere a similar seene is enacted.

In this way several hours are dwelling where several hours are spent by the executioner in extorting money from all the magnates in the neighborhood. When his purse is at last well filled he crects the scaffold in some dark wood and soon the unfortunate man, who has been tramping atter him all day, is at rest.

AT THE COUNTY FAIR.

Baby Show Was a Feature That Caused Much Excitement.
Standing outside on a little elevation, we looked down on a field of bouncts, which seemed to mulfie a mighty buzz, now dying, now swelling again, now silent, as a cierical looking man stepped to the edge of the platform at the distant end.

"Lot 56," he cried, reading from a catalogue in his hand. "Lot 56.—best boy haby over 1 year # nd not exceeding 1 year and 6 months.—shown by the mother. Prize, $2. Twelve entries."

The buzz became a roar, says Nelson Lloyd, in Seribher's Mag azine. Twelve mothers lifted themselves from the choso of bonnets and climbed to the platform. Even that moment the clergyman and his fellow judges were lost to our view. At rare intervals we could catch sight of a bit of black cout or a bald head, but they were quickly gone again.

My minister mopped his brow. "I was a judge last year," he said, A meek little man was standing close by and we heard a checkle.
"It is remarkable the way wom."

"It is remarkable the way won "It is remarkable the way women go in for it," he exclaimed.
"Why, it'll take 'em a month to get over the decisions, and for the rest of their lives them judges won't have any reputations for

He stopped. He made a rush for a little woman who was foreing her way out of the crowd. She was holding a baby so high in the air that we could see a blue ribbon on his arm. It was William.

Several times that afternoon several times that attended we saw the same young gentleman, and on every occasion he was reposing on the arm of the meek, scoffing little man, and he so reposed that the blue ribbon could not be missed.

THRIFTY GERMAN WOMAN.

THRIFTY GERMAN WOMAN.

She Makes the Government Custodian of Valuable Securities.

If women are not quite such good hands at making money as men, they at least take the paim in devising extraordinary means for saving it, says the London Telegraph. A curious case in point has recently come to the knowledge of a firm of bankers in Bunzlau, who, disgusted at the cleverness with which they have been deprived of their yearly fees, have made the matter public. In that city there is a wealthy woman who is wont to improve her mind by frequent travels and as she possesses a goodly collection. mind by frequent travels and as she possesses a goodly collection of debentures, shares and other kinds of scrip she was scenatomed to deposit them in a well-known bank there during her absence, paying a considerable sum for their safe keeping. Last March she hit upon a most ingenious way of cutting down this expense. She put all her serio in canacious way of cutting down this expense. She put all her serip in capacion envelopes, lad them duly registered and directed to a fletiflous address in Berlin, writing on the velope her own name as the sender, and requesting that they should be returned to her in case of nondelivery. And then she set out for her journey. The packets in due time found their way to the capital, where the post left nothing undone to discover the whereabouts of the mysterious and dressee. After having spent days deressee. capital, where the post left noting undone to discover the where-abouts of the mysterious addressee. After having spent days and days in fruitless research the officials gave it up in despair and returned the packet to Bunzlau to be handed back to the sender. But as she was absent and it is against the rules of the German post to give registered letters to anyone but the person whose name is on the envelope the authorities were forced to take charge of the packets until the woman's return. The saving thus effected is said to be very considerable and the post and the bank are devising some method of checkmating the scheme in the future. future.

PICTURES IN THE EYE.

PICTURES IN THE EYE.

One of the Mysteries Science Has Failed to Entirely Explain.
When the eyes are closed a never ending series of pictures pass before a person's mind if she or he chooses to look at them. Lying day, with your eyes closed, and about to fall asleep, have you never seen, apparently in the eyeball, spots and streaks of colored light, changing their forms and shifting their places. Have you never watched them passing into complicated patterns, like those of the kaliedoscope, or into pretty lanscapes quite unknown to you, or into strange faces, now and again, very beautiful or angelle, but often as ugly and hideous as goblins from the infernal regions, or haply, into scenes of actionreminding you of the drama, but such as you never saw in real life or upon any stage?

What are they? It is one of the mayseless of the marvelous, nay, miraculous, organ, the brain, asy ste Philadelphia Press. We mysteries of the "borderland" which lies between the adjoining states of wideawake and sound asleep.

Pictures in the eye are more akin to what are called "after larges." A gentleman, after a fatiguing day, was cheered by the sight of a beefsteak for his dinner, as he very well might, but seemingly the steak made a very deep impression on his mind or his digestion, for while he was drowning, with his eyes closed, afterenting it, he saw it again as wirdly as before, and on dropping asleep he saw it a third time inhis dream. It was doubtless a substantial steak and not a ghost, and yet if haunted him.

There is, of course, more than one theory of these living creatures in the eye, or, as they are called in science, "hypnogogic images." One is that they are promed on the retina, of the eye and confined to ft. Another is that they are promotination of both views. Recent observations of M. Yves Delage have put the question to experimental proof. When we look at a bright body, for example, the sun, and shut our eyes, we see a colored spot of light, and if we move the eye up or down, to right or left, the spot moves with t. The spot, in fact, is left by the image of the sun upon the retina, and, therefore, moves with it. The spot, in fact, is left by the image of the sun upon the retina, and, therefore, moves with it. To Our Business Men!

Take advantage of the opportunity offered by our Pictorial Edition of the Kentuckian to advertise your business. Farmers merchants, and business men of Hopkinsville and Christian county cannot afford to be left out of this Pictorial Edition of the Kentuckian. We will have a page for the county and city officials, lawyers, doctors and professional men. Don't be left out of this great ad wertising medium.

Mr. R. E. Hughes, Secretary Kentucky Exhibit Association World's Fair, St. Louis 1904, who called on me recently, says without fail send a copy of each town I have gotten issues of this kind out for, to be exhibited in the Kentucky building. He says it is the finest enterprise in the State to-day. I will respond to his request doctors and professional men. Don't be left out of this great ad vertising medium.

What Mr. Hughes Says:

THE KENTUCKIAN'S

Pictorial - Edition

We have secured the services of Mr. Wm. H. Bickers, special edition editor of this class and an artist in his line, who has special charge this work. He makes this class of work a specialty and has an established reputation in this line. He distinguished himself as a special artist for the New York World in the Cuban campaign, making it possible for the great daily he represented to give accurate description by illustration of prominent events, and now this well equipped artist will picture in words, sketches and photographs our magnificent county and its great resources. He comes highly recommended in person and by press clippings. Any favors shown him in connection with the enterprise will be appreciated. Mr. Bickers or others of this office will call on you in the near future and ask that you take space in this edition. If we do not see you, call at the office. We will spare no time, money, work or patience to make the pictorial edition of the Kentuckina a work of which every citizen of Christian county may be justly proud. Our Pictorial Edition editor, Mr. Wm. H. Bickers, or some one from this office, will call on you in the near future. Phone 99 and from us a postal in regard to your advertisement.
